PETITIONS FILED

Asking That Affairs Be Settled By Court.

Petitions have been filed in the Christian-circuit court to wind up the affairs of the Empire Coal and Mining company under the direction of the court, the company's charter having expired. Some of the stockholders did not desire to continue in the business and the petitions are for the purpose of settling up the business of the mining company. The company's assets are largely in the shape of its liabilities, the corporation being amply solvent. The company owns, besides its mines, which have been in active operation in the county for years, about 1,200 acres of valuable coal lands, and its plant is well equipped with the most improved machinery. The mines will be operated as heretofore, pending settlement of the business. It is likely that the property will be purchased by some of the stockholders and a new charter obtained.

One Hundredth Dividend.

The Illinois Central directors declared a semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent. on its $35,040,000 of capital stock and an extra dividend of one-half of one per cent. On account of this being the one hundredth dividend declared by the company, the extra dividend of one-half of one per cent, was declared in commemoration of that event.

AXE DESCENDED

Upon Mrs. Hille's Head, Causing Bad Wound.

Mrs. Oscar G. Hille was the victim of a very serious accident a few days ago. She was out in the yard and attempted to split a board with an axe. The axe struck a clothesline, and descending upon her head, cut a long gash, laying bare the skull. A surgeon was called and rendered aid, but she has suffered very much from the wound. Her head and face are greatly swollen and blood poisoning is feared. Mrs. Hille was reported somewhat better yesterday, but her condition is still quite serious.

INTERESTING MEETING

Of Daughters of the Confederacy This Week.

The Daughters of the Confederacy held their regular meeting Thursday afternoon in the parlor of Hotel Latham. The attendance was the largest of any on a similar occasion. A special program had been arranged, commemorative of Gen. Lee's birthday. There were two musical numbers, a piano solo by Miss Annie McPherson and a song by Miss Duke. Mrs. L. McF. Blakemore read a most excellent paper which she had prepared for the occasion.

Mr. J. S. Linebaugh, of Guthrie, spent yesterday in the city.

THINGS LOOK BLUE.

But Further Negotiations are Pending and Agreement May Yet be Reached.

MONEY LACKING.

Funds Only Thing Necessary to Complete Organization of Tobacco Growers.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 19.—Information received here from a reliable source indicates that the Kentucky Tobacco Growers' Association is in a quandary over the financing of their scheme. It seems that the promoters of the association expected the tobacco growers themselves to take the larger part of the stock in the association, but they only subscribed for about $200,000 worth. A lot of the stock was then offered the Louisville tobacco dealers, but they declined to buy. The Cincinnati dealers were next offered a chance to invest in the stock, and accepted the proposition in conjunction with several New York men.

The whole scheme seemed assured of success at this juncture, and attorneys were busy drawing up the papers, tobacco growers to have four out of the seven Directors of the association. A few days ago, however, a message was received by the Kentuckians that the Cincinnati and New York backers of the association must have four of the Directors. This was a stunner to the leaders in the association's fight against the Continental Company, as they fear the New Yorkers, if given control, will be as bad as the Continental from a combine standpoint, or else sell the new company direct to the Continental.

Things look blue for the association, but further negotiations are pending and an agreement may yet be reached.

MERGER OF SABBATH SCHOOLS.

With Union of American Hebrew Congregations as Urged by Dr. Philipson.

BIENNIAL SESSION.

Great Need of Co-operation and Organization in Educational Work.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—The Hebrew Sabbath School Union of America voted, in biennial session, to merge with the council of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, in response to the latter's invitation. President David Philipson, of Cincinnati, recommended the plan in his annual report. Two hundred rabbis, Sabbath School Superintendents and others were present in the Isaiah Temple.

President Philipson in his address said, among other things: "The religious training of our young is a vital question too often neglected. We have been derelict in this regard because we have not done all the things we should have done. The home is a natural religious school for the child, but, unfortunately, the parents have placed this responsibility on the church. We are at last awakening to the great need of co-operation and organization in our educational work. More frequent conferences should be held to discuss these subjects. A Sabbath school census should be taken in all large cities so we may find out where the Jewish children are and bring them into the Sabbath school. The latter should have a graded system of instruction. There should be a secondary religious school corresponding with the public school. This would be a connecting link between the primary Sabbath school and the church. I also recommend that this body extend its work and widen its influence by uniting with the council of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations."

All his recommendations were adopted by the organization.

NIEDRINGHAUS FAILS OF ELECTION.

Joint Session in Missouri Legislature Develops a Surprise.

CAUCUS NOMINEE FAILS.

Eight Republicans Bolt His Nomination and His Defeat Looks Certain.

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 19.—The bolt of six Republicans on the first and two more on the second ballot from the ranks of Thos. K. Niedringhaus, the Republican caucus nominee for United States Senator, whose election had seemed assured, resulted in no choice to-day in the joint session of the Legislature. With the exception of one, who cast his ballot for Dr. Pettibone, of Linn county, all the bolters voted for R. C. Kerens, of St. Louis, who was the strongest opponent of Niedringhaus in the caucus.

The anti-Niedringhaus forces claim that the bolting element will be strengthened and they assert that at least fifteen votes will be cast against Niedringhaus by Republican members. It is believed by well-posted politicians at Jefferson City that the defeat of Niedringhaus is assured.

GOV. DOUGLAS DID IT.

Strike of Cotton Mill Operatives Settled Promptly.

Fall River, Mass., Jan. 19.—It was through the mediation of Gov. W. L. Douglas that the strike of cotton mill operatives at Fall River was settled. The strikers return to work under 12 1/2 per cent. reduction, against which they struck, but the operators are to pay, at least until April, a dividend upon an average margin between the cost of cotton to the mill owners and the selling price of the cloth.

PRESIDENT WOOLDRIDGE INAUGURATED.

Baldheaded Club Holds Important Business Session.

PROGRAM FOR BANQUET

Toast List Announced For Coming Feast at Hotel Latham.

SIMPLE ceremonies marked the inauguration of Col. Robert M. Wooldridge as President of the Baldheaded Club Saturday night. President Joe K. Twyman called the Club to order and immediately turned over the reins of government to his successor, who advanced to the stand and took the oath of office. Then facing about, the new President delivered an inaugural address that will live in the annals of the Knights of the Shining Pate. He declared that it was the proudest moment of his life, and swore by the diamond that glittered on his breast, a present from Queen Liloukalina, that he would stand by the club as long as it stood by him. He soared aloft at times until he scraped the skies with his eloquence, and then came to earth with as much ease as a Baldwin airship alighting from the realms of ether. At times his hearers were moved by a common impulse to go out and tell those outside what they were missing. But this was impossible, as the President had locked the door and put the key in his pocket, before beginning his address. When he finally concluded, the applause was almost deafening.

Col. Gus Breathitt said it was the greatest speech ever made in Kentucky, with the possible exception of that made by his friend, Hon. Jim Rogers, last week when he told the Legislature a thing or two.

Col. Sam Buckner, who is Col. Wooldridge's uncle, moved that instead of one inaugural ball, that his distinguished nephew be given three balls.

The informal reception that followed was interrupted by Col. W. H. Nixon, who said he had been out of town several days teaching a couple of Bedford, Indiana, detectives how to track a rabbit in the snow.

Col. Green Champlin remarked to Col. B. E. Rice that he liked the new President first-rate, but he ran things too loose to suit him. He said he even sold tobacco loose in his warehouse and had pillows in his house made from the feathers of Toulouse geese.

As soon as quiet was restored, Col. Wooldridge completed the installation of new officers, each being presented with tokens of esteem. Vice President Champlin got two elegant bouquets, one of them representing a large hammer and the other a mule in the act of kicking.

The genial Vice President said he hoped the floral offerings contained no references to allusions, as he made it a point never to knock or kick. He said if any man intimated to the contrary, he would knock his teeth down his throat and kick his anatomical corporosity down the steps.

Col. John Phelps said that a man who could talk like that was destined for higher honors than the vice presidency.

President Wooldridge, after the usual routine matters had been disposed of, called for the report of the Banquet Committee appointed at the last meeting. Col. Lloyd Whitlow, the chairman, brought in a report that at once aroused the keenest interest. He said the committee had decided to hold the banquet at Hotel Latham and that the President had expressed a desire that no expense be spared to make it swell. The banquet would therefore cost $4 a plate and in order to make it as well as possible, one course would be dried apple and hot lemonade. Col. Whitlow said the following toast list had been arranged:

"The President" Col. William Rothchild Howell.
"Our Noble Order"—Col. Lemuel Harriman McKee.
"Incompatibility of Greatness and Minute Luxurious"—Col. John Rockefeller Phelps.
"Frenzied Finance"—Col. William Lawson Bamberger.
"Poor-eater Mosquito, None Fit"—Pres. Robert Morgan Wooldridge.
"The Charge at Winesap Hill"—Col. Burch Milesoff Bassett.
The banquet was the sole topic of discussion until the hour of adjournment.

FIRE AT MURRAY.

The M. and F. Institute Totally Destroyed.
Murray, Ky., Jan. 19.—Fire Tuesday night completely destroyed the Murray Male and Female Institute, one of the most successful schools in Western Kentucky. Prof. J. O. Brown, the principal, had about 500 pupils under his charge, and eight teachers.
The building was erected in 1871 by private subscription and was later combined with the public school. It has been the boast and pride of the city and county for years. The fire originated from a defective flue, it is thought. Arrangements have been made to continue the school in the factory building, which is being repaired for that purpose.

GREAT VARIETY

Will be the Program to Be Presented at Tabernacle.
The Unique Musical Company, which appears at the Tabernacle Friday, Jan. 27, comes highly recommended as a most excellent attraction. Concerning Arthur Wells, a member of the aggregation, the Knoxville Daily Sentinel says:
"Arthur Wells, who is a musical genius, entertained the audience with some original trick banjo playing. As an encore to this he played 'Home, Sweet Home,' giving the variations. It was plainly seen that he played the air of the song on the banjo, yet in some manner he also played the variations, giving them the sound of a mandolin, but his fingers showed no sign of this latter performance."

PADUCAH Y. M. C. A.

Its Doors Again Thrown Open to the Public.
Paducah, Ky., Jan. 19.—After having been closed for two months, the doors of the Y. M. C. A. were thrown open to the public Tuesday and the callers were entertained with an interesting program. Miss Blanche Buckner, late of Louisville, but now of Paducah, rendered two excellent solos.

Two months ago the association had to close its doors, owing to a debt of $3,000. By the untiring efforts of the Woman's Committee, this money was raised and the debt lifted.

ADDRESS TO TOBACCO GROWERS.

Mr. Chas. E. Barker Writes of Conditions as They Once Were.

BEHOLD, THE CHANGE.

Old Times, When Dozens of Buyers Looked at Samples as They Passed Around.

The Pembroke Journal of this week has an article from Mr. Chas. E. Barker, which is reproduced below.

The mass meetings at the voting precincts should be looked after closely by the tobacco growers. Some years ago all this tobacco was prized and shipped to New Orleans or New York, where the foreign buyers came to see samples and bought from these commission men such tobacco as they needed. There were no markets here then. Later on, the markets at Clarksville, Hopkinsville, Louisville and other places were established and the foreigners came to the Western markets and bought at auction sales in competition with the speculators and representatives of the demands of the whole world. We can remember the $40,000 tobacco exchange at Clarksville, with 20 buyers sitting around that long table, and Mr. Dan Gold and others auctioning the samples as they were passed around. We can remember that men were there from each market—of our own people—bone of our bone, and flesh of our flesh—men who had been business associates of our fathers, and who knew the farmers, had personal interest in them, and a mutual confidence existed. Then we saw tobacco sold as high as $15 to $20, and tobacco growing was very interesting.

But 10 years later, behold the change. The foreign representatives, in order to get away from the tobacco, went out in the country to the farms, where there is no competition. Only old haysed and himself. The farmer knows little about tobacco markets, their demand and the supply. The buyer has his order and instructions from abroad, where all the information necessary has been acquired, and financial arrangements made to handle the crop. On the one hand is the farmer. Labor, ignorant of conditions, and with all he has in the tobacco crop. On the other hand is the Tobacco Trust. Organized capital, awake to every condition and ready to swindle everything in sight. As the result of this meeting at the barn we see this tobacco exchange gone—sold to a railroad for a depot. All our former buyers and friends of years' standing are out of the business and in their places men we do not know and who care no more about the farmer than they do about the worm that lives on tobacco. What these men want is to get this tobacco at the lowest possible price, regardless of the cost of production or what becomes of the producer; that they may get big salaries from the trust and that their foreign governments may make themselves rich by revenues derived from this tobacco. On the farmer's side we see the price of tobacco so low that no man can grow it and live honestly. The farmer has worn his hands until they have become much less productive, labor has become demoralized, the best laborers have left the farms, gone to the shops, mines, railroads, etc., and general demoralization reigns among the tobacco planters. Some are so self-confident they can do no way save their own—can't organize save on their own views. Some are so weak-kneed that they fear the Tobacco Trust will boycott them if they join or take any part in an organization, and some say that they have no other means of making a living besides tobacco growing. These class must come together if we are to be better off condition. They must each make some sacrifice, some compromise, and get these agents of the Trust away from the barn door. Send him back to the warehouse.

man to do business. Have him go on the open market and buy tobacco in competition with the world and stop him from looking about through the country. Wipe from the map these districts he has made in our tobacco sections, where he has placed a boss over a lot of subordinates, who go from barn to barn in their respective districts, taking the tobacco at their price.
I know no remedy save the Dark Tobacco Association, and I do not see we need any better plan. This executive committee will be a great board of information, of honored, non-salaried men. They will do what they will find best for each tobacco grower, through the best warehousemen and expert tobacco judges in the district. They will advise the tobacco sold in hogheads or loose or both; they will surely insist on it being sold on an open market.
They can win this fight and help you only if you will join the association and hold up your hands. If you will do it, say so, and all will be well.

Away up North.

SENT A GOLD SANDWICH

Trouble That Followed the Gift of a Diffident Lover.

The Bureau of Redemption at the Treasury Department received a day or two ago, two dull flat objects, which turned out to be two $20 gold pieces after they had been lying in a hot coal fire for several hours. With them came a story, says a Washington special to the Baltimore American.

It appears that a young gentleman in Brooklyn, being moved by love of a young lady to present her with a Christmas present, was much disturbed as to what he could give her. At last he decided that as she had everything in the world that could be bought, he would present her in a roundabout way with two $20 gold pieces. Knowing that she would refuse the money if tendered in a raw fashion, it seemed to him to be a happy plan to send the gold in the shape of a sandwich. He procured two pieces of bread, laid some meat between the bread and then under the meat placed the gold. He put the sandwiches up in a fancy box and sent them to the lady.

On Christmas day he called, and was met with the cold eye of scorn. His timid query as to whether his little remembrance had been received was answered in a tone that almost congealed him, and the lady added that she was not an object of public charity. Then he tried to explain, and the lady admitted that she had thrown the sandwich into the stove. Thereupon the two spent half an hour raking over the ashes, their differences being entirely reconciled in their eager hunt for the gold pieces. Finally they found the two discolored lumps of gold. The young gentleman sent them on to the Bureau of Redemption with his story. The bureau experts soon saw that the intrinsic value of the gold pieces had not been altered, and, so, two new golden double eagles were dispatched to him in a neat little case.

ROUSS RALLIED.

Age 115, but Not Yet Ready for Grave.

Levi Rouss, of Passaic, N. J. has celebrated what he claims to be his 115th birthday.

Rouss has resided in Passaic for 12 years, having been taken there from New York by local Hebrew leaders. The latter had secured ground on the outskirts of Passaic for a new cemetery, and, to follow out an ancient tradition, wanted to find an old man to be the first to lie in it. Rouss was found on the East Side and it was thought that he could live only a short time. His fellow Hebrews promised him money, a home and plenty of food. The consideration was that he be buried in the new cemetery.

It took Rouss one week to get back his health, and since then, except for about two weeks last spring, he has walked about unaided. Several members of the committee who took him to Passaic, expecting that he would soon be buried in the new cemetery, are now resting there themselves.

Pool was represented by Judge John D. Shaw, of Cadiz, and Breathitt & Bell, of this city, and the commonwealth by County Attorney O. H. Anderson.

TEXAS FRUIT LANDS

Produce Early Crops Which Bring Fancy Prices

In Texas they begin shipping berries in April, tomatoes in May, peaches in June, bringing fancy prices up North.

The growing season is much longer than in the North—a chance to make two and three crops, reducing the expenses of "getting through" the winter.

Fruit and truck long the Cotton Belt Route are very cheap as yet—$10 to $15 an acre unimproved. When put to orchard or truck they can be made to yield $100 to $200 per acre and more.

Besides, it's an ideal climate—no long, cold winters. Write for booklet on fruit and truck growing.

CONGRESS OF NATIONS.

Perfections of this Attraction Hard to Describe.

The forthcoming presentation in this city of Wm. H. and E. B. Joseph's "Congress of Nations" is bound to be well patronized as it has drawn the largest houses in every city since the advent of Matinee Pictures ten years ago. The "Congress of Nations" consists of 815 traveling photographic scenes, but not anything at all like Motion pictures, nothing to tire the eyes as every person can spend hours watching these photographic scenes. Words cannot describe the perfections of this attraction, 33 different diversions in 2 hours and 25 minutes. 50,000 miles of travel and not a word of lecture.
